The Active Participle

It is a noun derived from the verb root which tells us about the doer of the action, either in the past, present or future. It is formed from the verb root (Active Verb).

Rules of Formation

If the action verb is a 3-letter word, it is formed from its past tense (III person -اء) by adding ح (Kasra) to the second radical.